Travel Experience

Travel allows me to experience different cultures, to know the world and to know my limit. Travel is about knowing myself and exploring my limit, so I would know where to push and how to push. Through knowing people from other culture, I could be more content, and more humble to confront what is happening around me. Travel gives me an opportunity to not just know the people I never had a chance to know, but it also allows me to know more about myself through knowing people. The deeper I could understand myself, the more understanding I would know for the reason of my behaviours, my thoughts, my purpose of certain things and my intention of travel. Travel has its own meaning to each person, people travels with their intention, I travel with mine. I get input through travel, the input for my own projects. The input comes from a deeper understanding of myself, so I would understand more about people, about things, about what is happening and what has/had happened.
